By International News Service.

London, May 2—The allies will give Germany a respite of twelve days in which to accept or reject the allied indemnity demands, Premier Briand of France announced today.

"The allies have agreed in principle to present an ultimatum to Germany, including terms which as yet are incomplete. At the same time, the allies will proceed with military measures which will be used in case of default by Germany."

The allies are prepared for both hard and soft action, although the latter will be limited and will not be expanded to the scope of a full-fledged blockade. Upon this phase Premier Briand said:

"The British will not undertake a naval blockade, but we have agreed that there will be a naval demonstration."

The French Premier's statement was made after the Supreme Council had met for half an hour, considering the proposal to send Germany an ultimatum.

Dance Tango and Live Long, Says Doctor

By PROFESSOR L. SARATIER,
Member of the French Academy of Medicine.

Paris, May 2.—News of the revival of the tango should be received with almost gratification by physicians and all interested in public health.

I attribute unhesitatingly the fact that the world's health has been so much better generally in recent years to the beneficial results of the dance craze, and of all dances the tango is the best from the health point of view.

Barring accidents, the man or woman who dances at least two dances every day will last longer than the man or woman who never dances.

Instead of being the subject of censure by the police, public halls should be subsidized by the government, made free and thrown open in every quarter day and night.

2,800 Men Affected at This Port by Marine Workers' Walkout

With twelve ships tied up in Boston harbor, involving 2,800 men, and 700 more idle in other New England ports, the American seaboard strike of marine workers assumed alarming proportions locally today.

Reports from other sections of the country announced that more than 100,000 men were out, with their numbers being constantly increased as ships reached port and their crews were called away.

George H. Willey, local representation of the Marine Engineers' Union, and Meller Jorsen of the International Seamen's Union, who orders as were New England ports calling out all union men on ships flying the American flag.

Willey, who is chairman of the Wage Scale Committee of the National Union of Marine Engineers, declared the men would fight to the finish rather than accept the 15 per cent. wage cut.

He asserted it to be another evidence of the nationwide attempt to break down union labor, and declared that rather than submit the marine workers would see American ships tied up.

WILSON ADMITTED TO PRACTICE IN NEW YORK

Albany, N. Y., May 2—Woodrow Wilson can practice law in New York any time he wants to hang out his shingle.

The former President has been made a member of the New York Bar by a special bill passed by the Assembly, which Governor Miller announced that he had signed.

Marjorie Wright, freshman president, was crowned Queen of the May at the Wellesley May Day celebration today.

Miss Wright, who took the part of Maid Marion, was crowned by Constance Whittemore, senior president who impersonated Robin Hood, and was the feature of the celebration.

Despite almost cold breezes the students romped through their festivities with enjoyment.

The day began at 6 o'clock with the scrubbing of the chapel steps by the seniors, who later engaged in a hoop rolling contest.

After the chapel services, the sophomores, dressed in white, wearing blue hats and waving blue handkerchiefs as though giving the Chautauqua salute, formed the senior numerals on Tower Court hill.

The afternoon was devoted to childish games, with the girls dressed in rompers and other children's clothing. During this period the Queen of the May was crowned, with members of Robin Hood's band in doublet and hose, village maidens in full skirts and bodices, and Mary O'Keefe, '21, of Miller's Falls, N. Y., as jester.

Miss Barbara Bean, of Berlin, N. H., won the hoop-rooling contest.

MELLON SEES ECONOMIC EVIL IN TAXFREE STATE-CITY BONDS

EXEMPT SECURITIES MENACE NATION, TREASURER SAYS

Washington, May 2—Setting forth the necessity of the government's raising $4,000,000,000 a year by internal taxes for at least a few years, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon today characterized the tax-exempt securities with which the States and municipalities are flooding the country as the outstanding economic evil handicapping the nation at large.

In a letter to Representative Fordney of Michigan, chairman of the House ways and means committee, on the financial situation, generally and the revenue bill now before congress particularly, he referred to reduced prospective revenues as "calling for a drastic reduction in the expenditures of the government, or for additional taxes, or for both."

RUN TO FIVE BILLION.

In pointing out the possible needs for increased expenses and changes in the revenue system, Secretary Mellon said that "the total expenditures for the fiscal year 1921 will probably be in the neighborhood of $5,000,000,000, and for the fiscal year 1922 they will probably be in excess of $4,000,000,000."

The secretary favors an excess profits tax to be supplanted by a modified tax on corporate profits or that additional income be derived from the present excess profits tax, which, he asserted, is the cause of many evils in the present system.

Taxes figures showing the growing unproductivity of the excess profits tax and the difficulty of administering it, he say:

FLAT TAX SIMPLER.

"It is a good deal easier for the taxable corporations to tell what their taxes will yield about 15 months hence, when the taxes will be collected, with $2,000,000,000 for 1919 and $7,000,000,000 for 1920," he stated. "A flat constitutional tax on corporation income would greatly simplify the problem and, finally, would be simple of administration, and would be roughly adjusted to ability to pay.

He likewise advocated readjustment of the income tax rates downward, not as a means of relieving the rich but in recognition of the fact that the high surtaxes have already passed the collection point through having the effect of driving capital into tax-exempt securities or into fixed, yielding no taxable income.

Bare Ears Edict Hits U. S. Women in Paris

Paris, May 2.—Hundreds of American society women in Paris with permanently waved locks have found themselves hopelessly out of fashion.

They are confronted with a new style which is set by Mme. Pierrelli, the woman with the world-famed legs of beauty, who is wearing her hair tightly drawn from her forehead, exposing her ears.

The new mode was pronounced by visitors at Longchamps, when the weekly style parade broke all records for the number of innovations. The new and startling ideas included parasols, fashioned after Louis XVI table legs, with patrician plumes, gorgeously dyed. There was also "weeding weeds," cuts, reminiscent of the "Merry Widow," bearing single ornaments such as a humming bird set in diamonds.

BUILDERS QUIT IN PROVIDENCE

Refuse to Work When Employers Put Wage Reduction Into Effect

Providence, May 2—All of the building trades workers employed in this city walked out today. A new wage schedule carrying a reduction of from 12 to 20 per cent. became effective and the walkout followed a statement by the unions' members to either "take it or leave it."

All of the building now going on will be affected and no further settlement is in sight, one of the principal plans affected by the walkout is the Biltmore Hotel, now under construction. This will be the largest hostelry in the city when completed.

While there are now 3,000 men affected with the building trades unions in this city, it was learned today that only about 500 were employed at present. When the men reported for work today and found that the master builders had decided to stand by the reductions announced it was decided to quit work.

Several meetings were held between representatives of the trades unions and the master builders, but no satisfactory agreement was reached.

ALICE NIELSEN AND MRS. FULLER SING FOR FUND

Miss Alice Nielson and Mrs. Alvan T. Fuller were the soloists at a concert in Symphony Hall for the Boston College campaign. Miss Marjorie Church was accompanist and the Boston Symphony Trio, Messrs. Brothers, under the direction of M. Vianni, also played. Mrs. Fuller, known in grand opera as Vera Curtis, and Miss Church received enthusiastic ovations. The Boston College Orchestra contributed a prelude.

Hapless Young Lifted From Despond by Society

At top, trio of unfortunate girls in the charge of the Society for the prevention of Cruelty to Children, their faces radiating the kindness and pleasantness of their environment at the society's temporary detention home. Below, three waifs enjoying a game of see-saw while waiting for the society to dispose of their cases. These are the first photos ever taken inside the home for publicity.

The world is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we all ought to be happy as kings.

Stevenson's couplet is as unfamiliar now to the children in the temporary detention home of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children as Einstein's theory, but its spirit actuates all of them.

Neglected little unfortunates, who never know real homes, and whose short lives have frequently been filled with abuse, they yet manage to obtain much joyous entertainment while waiting for their cases to be disposed of.

Working on the theory that broadening over one's troubles never helps anyone, the authorities have decreed that no discussion of cases is to take place in the institution.

HEALTHFUL PLAY.

In consequence the days of the children are spent in healthful play with the exception of time devoted to necessary tasks by those old enough to help in the work.

A reporter who visited the detention home, found a large, well lighted playroom in which a number of children were enjoying themselves with as much abandon as their more fortunate brothers and sisters. Tiny boys, on their hands and knees were racing engines about the room, an astonishingly rapid rate. A little girl in a blue pinafore leaned against a table, apparently indulging in a day dream, while another miss was busily engaged making mysterious marks on a blackboard.

The last, an undernourished girl and the two small boys were brothers and sister, whose mother, a drug addict, had been sent to prison for an indefinite period.

FEARED MEDICAL TEST.

"I wish I was you I am going to have a blood test made this afternoon does it hurt?" rattled the small miss all in one breath, and with a most intense expression.

"No, it doesn't hurt very much—not more than a pin prick," the reporter answered. "Why do you wish you were me?" The grammatical error was unnoticed. "Because you are going home," the little girl answered. "I wish I was going home."

A short time later the dejected little reporter was engaged in conversation with her brothers. "Are you going too?" the elder was asked. He nodded. "Is little brother going?"

"Naw," snorted the larger boy. He swears."

"You don't swear, do you?" asked the reporter of the smallest boy in tones of shocked incredulity. "Yes," he replied simply.

INDICTMENT OF OFFICER ASKED

Evidence Against Patrolman Titus, Who Killed Italian, Presented to District Attorney

Attorney Thomas F. Murphy today appeared before Assistant District Attorney Henry P. Fielding to ask for an indictment against charging Patrolman Harold B. Titus of the traffic squad with manslaughter in shooting and causing the death of Santo Chiramonte, sixty-two years, widower of No. 12 Saratoga street, East Boston, on Monday evening, April 11. Attorney Murphy presented evidence and was with officials after spending all day yesterday and the greater part of the evening interviewing witnesses.

There was a meeting at the home of Stephen Chiramonte son of the dead man, on Monday evening, at 8 last night, when $750 was added to a fund already deposited in a bank to prosecute an inquiry. At the meeting attended by relatives and friends of the dead man, letters from New York, Chicago and St. Paul were read, all of which expressed the sympathy in each case, who have promised to raise a certain fund in those cities.

Plans for a mass meeting of relatives and friends of the dead man are being made for the latter part of the week. The general committee as given by Stephen Chiramonte, Representative Angelo Evoretti, Representative John H. Cuch and Representative Philip Russo and Lawrence Gallo.

Mr. Evoretti who is chairman of the committee in the western part of the State, Angelo Evoretti is chairman of the committee in the North End, Salvatore Frattallone, president of the firm of A. Palermo Company of St. Paul, Minn., will have charge of the funds in that city.

Salvatore Frattallone, 13 Polk street, Chicago, and Frank Barbar, No. 25 Stanton street, New York, will look after the committees in those two cities.

New witnesses were found today who will testify that Patrolman Titus and Carmelo Ravaschia had met on the same car to work every morning and that the policeman often waited for her in front of her home in the morning. Neighbors will also testify that the policeman was a frequent visitor at the girl's home in the evening.

Mrs. Terravecchia is the young lady who says Chiramonte was bothering her on the fatal evening and who sent her brother looking for a police officer. Her brother met Patrolman Titus and Titus went to the girl's home. After he had spent a half hour in her house, it is claimed, he left, and the shooting took place which caused Santo Chiramontes death.

RUSSIAN TRADE MOVE BY LABOR

Machinists' Representatives Leave Wednesday to Confer on Engine Orders

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

Washington, May 2.— William H. Johnson, president of the International Association of Machinists is going to Russia to find out whether the Soviet government can pay for the locomotives of which it is in dire need. If it can the machinists are going to make and ship the locomotives themselves. The machinists have saved their money and believe they have a lot of it. They have already had experience in building a plant and running it, and they have a large and prosperous bank of their own.

Johnson will sail on the Adriatic next Wednesday. With him goes F. L. Mulholland, of Toledo, general counsel for the machinists. They will land first in England where they will see Krassin and the members of his mission, and on the information can be given by the men who negotiated the trade treaty between Soviet Russia and Great Britain.

Norman Hapgood.

AT MOMENTOUS TIME.

Krassin has recently been back to Moscow and when he came out of Russia he gave an interesting newspaper in Riga an elaborate comparison between Russia as it was then and as it had been when he first left for England.

He also gave a clear statement of what can be expected now and of the changes that are necessary in order that more people at large may profit by the incalculable wealth of Russian counterattack if they could use their prosperous bank of their own.

Johnson will arrive in Russia at a singularly interesting moment. Having shaken itself free of the Kolchaks, Denikins, Judenitches, it is facing for the first time the problem of peace. It has had a treaty with Estonia for over a year. It now has treaties with Poland and Latvia. It is about signing with Germany, Italy and Japan, not to mention smaller countries. At home the Soviet rule is well established. Johnson particularly emphasizes the disappearance of opposition which is being brought about between Japan and Russia, while we and Russia are haggling tell about our own virtues.

INTERNAL PROBLEMS ACUTE.

The moment chosen for Johnson's visit is one of peace. In which the Soviet government is dealing with the Russian people itself. In Lenin and the executive of the Third Trotzki wants to keep on tearing pages out of Karl Marx and bringing about the dictatorship of the world and talking world revolution. Krassin and the moderates are heading and including Krassin, has at the recent congress won an overwhelming victory. The issues on which may be summarized as follows:

Forget the world revolution. It is a thing we can't do now. The only job at present is a successful reorganization of industry in Russia. Realize that nearly seven years of war and blockade are not the only causes of this prostration. A cause needing particular attention is the destruction of the middle class.

Grant concessions to foreign capital. It is unfortunate but it is necessary to get foreign help in the development of our natural resources. Do not interfere with the freedom of action of small business.

TO REGULATE TRADE.

Against the success of Lenine's constructive efforts our deserters will do all they can. If he is overthrown his successor will not be Bukharin or the Princess Cantacuzene. His successor will be first and last a Russian communist group, perhaps Trotzki, and later a Tsarist.

Johnson will soon find out before he sails. Perhaps the most interested group in America on Russian affairs has just returned from a visiting trip to Russia. His name is Michael Gregory Ogden. He can tell Mr. Johnson that the peasant in Russia has lots to kick about, but that he means to do it with a rifle in each good hand, and has not the slightest intention of being led to orthodox, whatever may be the hopes of Paris or Washington.

Mr. Johnson pointed out that there are between four and five million unemployed in this country at the present moment. But they are not satisfied with the explanation that this unemployment is due to good wages and the will of God. They think it may possibly have something to do with trade. They have money, experience, and will, and are going to take matters into their own hands.

CASE I.—When the value is not greater than 180 degrees

Let ABC be the give angle.

To trisect ABC.

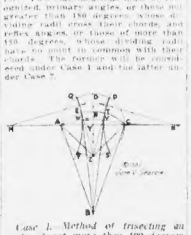
Describe arc X, which is intercepted by the sides of the angle and measures its value.

Draw the chord AC and extend it indefinitely in both directions.

Bisect the angle ABC. The bisector cuts the chord at the point Y.

With A Y as a radius and Y as a center, describe the circumference which shall cut the bisector at the points D and Z.

Draw the straight lines AZ and CZ



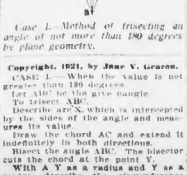
Case I. Method of trisecting an angle of not more than 180 degrees by plane geometry.

TWO METHODS ILLUSTRATED

For the sake of the interested, the diagrams, self-explanatory to a degree, are offered. As it is not a page from a book on plane geometry, the mathematical theorems cannot be published in the present issue, to protect the work under copyright laws.

It would be proper to mind that the division of the angle into any required number of equal parts is not to be accomplished by any trick, but by the application of geometry. It must be absolutely accurate and exact, independent of the personal equation.

Since all angles may not be trisected, the question arises, how can a preliminary examination is called for. The classification must be confined, intimate angles, or those not greater than 180 degrees. Those of regular radii, with their chords, and reflex angles, or those of more than 180 degrees, whose dividing radii have no point in common with their chords. The former will be considered under Case I and the latter under Case 2.



Case, Case 2 Space

Case II. Method used when angle to be trisected is greater than 180 degrees.

Case II. When the angle is greater than 180 degrees.

Let ABC be the given reflex angle, to trisect ABC.

Draw the chord AC and the arc AXC, which measures the angle ABC.

Trisect the arc AXC and the arc AYC, whose value is less than 180 degrees.

Trisect this lesser arc according to Case I.

Mark the points of trisection E and F. From E and F mark off arcs EM and FH, each equal to 120 degrees. This will be done by using the radius as a chord twice in each case.

Now KM is one-third of the whole circumference and FA is one-third of the lesser arc. Therefore, CM is one-third of the arc AXC.

Also, FH is one-third of the circumference and EA is one-third of the lesser arc.

Therefore, AH is one-third of the arc AXC.

Therefore, the arc AXC is trisected at the points M and H.

Draw the straight lines BM and BH. These trisect the reflex angle ABC, which we assumed to be any angle greater than 180 degrees.

Therefore we see the arc of any number of degrees may be trisected. These diagrams may be severely tested and will be found to represent the true method of trisecting any angle. This method cannot be proven incorrect because it can be proven absolutely true to geometrical laws.

Miss Constance Arnold, eighteen-year-old student at Waltham High school, has the distinction of never getting to exceed a mark to lower than "A" since entering high school. She will be graduated in June. Miss Arnold is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Arnold of No. 380 Moody street, Waltham.

Somerville firemen are now studying the chart of the streets in this station and a number will soon be off for the various fires. Several firemen dropping around to the station have declared that they would like to try the latter part of the week.

Two dozen charts are to be promoted on next Friday, when the men will be given a test of the city streets. Each man will be required to name the streets in the district in which the fire is located. Those who pass the examination for promotion will be given a paper over five years are eligible to take the examination.

Dandruff Surely Destroys The Hair

Get rid of the world's worst plague of scalp, beautify your hair, and be happy. Dandruff starves your hair and ruins it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it off. The most successful way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy the cause entirely. Just apply a little Liquid Arvon at night and rub it gently with the finger tips.

In the morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and after a few more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single trace of it.

You will find that this stops all itching and digging of the scalp at once, and your hair will look and feel fine and silky after the first application. Three times better than any tonic or hair dressing, and you can get Liquid Arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is enough to last almost a quarter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.—Adv.

DANIEL WEBSTER

Do you know where Daniel Webster was wont to trade?

Do you realize that it was at the oldest department store in America, and that the same store is still doing business here in Massachusetts?

You will find this historic forerunner of all the great department stores in America today on the State highway in Duxbury.

Think of the far-reaching example of that original American department store in a historic, little Bay State town! The first store of its kind—the place where Daniel Webster once traded and held audience about the rusty, old stove—a business establishment that is still selling its wares at humble prices, although it long ago gave to the world an idea that has been worth untold millions.

It is only a few miles from Boston, not more than a quarter of a mile from the Duxbury "depot"—five rambling buildings joined together so that the people of the neighborhood could do all of their shopping under one roof.

The real history of New England lies hidden in the significance of ten thousand simple things strewn along the highways and byways of these old Colonial states—tucked away among the records and results of modern achievement, like that ancient store in Duxbury.

Who is there with red blood in his veins who cannot thrill at the thoughts that come trooping into the mind when one looks upon the beginnings of America's greatness?

Many of us have the red corpuscles—but they need stirring up. These real things and their significance should stir them.

This page would not be big enough to tell all the features wherein New England leads the world.

Nature has been kind to New England. Its men have been sturdy and resourceful. Its women have been courageous and gentle. They have been pioneers, patriots, educators, scientists, statesmen—founders of new cities and new commonwealths across the continent, builders of the nation's business, industry and ocean commerce.

Into the old as well as the new territory of the business world, the Moxie Educational Department blazes the way with automobiles and modern business methods.

We can always furnish interesting data concerning New England—this famous old summer playground of America—fountainhead of the best traditions of American history, culture, business and industry—at any time you may come to visit us in Moxie-Land. We threw away the key a quarter of a century ago just to assure everyone of a cordial welcome which makes every day a sight-seeing day in Moxie-Land.

May we not suggest that you begin today to write to your friends throughout the world, telling them not to fail to visit New England this summer?

For one who has once enjoyed a vacation in New England is always New England's friend.

300 ENTER IN BICYCLE RUN

Roslindale Plans Big Part in Boston American Event May 15

EVERYBODY INVITED TO TAKE PART IN BIG BICYCLE RUN

Entry for Boston American Free Social Bicycle Run.

Name .....

Address .....

Age .....

Three hundred riders from Roslindale are planning to take part in the big social bicycle run to be conducted Sunday afternoon, May 15, from Copley Square to Franklin Field, under the auspices of the Boston American.

They will leave Roslindale under the leadership of Charles Thiel of No. 4261 Washington street, who is expected to make a big hit on a 6 cylinder bicycle, a one-wheel affair with seat eight feet from the ground.

Mr. Thiel will give a special exhibition on this freak machine at the destination. Everywhere he rides it boys and girls crowd around to watch him. He uses a pair of handle bars attached to a small wheel to balance himself. As the name of the machine indicates the rider has the appearance of a giraffe while moving about.

Mr. Thiel assured the bicycle editor that in addition to the 300 riders on modern bicycles from Roslindale two "odd-timers" on high wheeled "ordinaries" will be there.

BOY WITH "OLD-TIMER."

Further word from Linda Storrow of No. 31 Devon street, Roxbury, probably the only boy in Greater Boston who rides a high wheel of other days will participate in the run. He will ride with the "old timers" at the head of the big procession.

Many girls have sent in their names as entrants. Some of them are taking long rides daily to be in good condition for the big run. Seventeen-year-old Geraldine Wyman of Carver street, one of the entrants, has ridden as much as ninety-seven miles a day. She will ride a boy's wheel in the American run.

Scout Master Chester M. Sinnott of No. 116 Blue Hill avenue, Dorchester, has entered his name for the outing. He said he hoped to have his whole troop of Boy Scouts go along.

In addition to the five bicycles to be awarded to participants riding motorcycles will be given to the boy or girl under fifteen years of age who gives the best exhibition of trick riding at Franklin Field.

This contest will be staged in front of thousands of people who will be assembled at the destination. Greater Boston seems eleven young trick riders. Every one of them is invited to enter this event, which is sure to be interesting.

FIRST PRIZE OFFERED.

Wright & Ditson, of No. 34 Washington street, through Manager John P. Morrell, has offered a first quality sweater as a prize for the run. Other firms are considering giving prize articles.

The prize bicycles to be awarded for perfection in riding are as follows: Today Motor bike, given by George N. Holden, No. 188 Massachusetts avenue; "Emblem" bicycle, offered by Hub Cycle Company, No. 19 Portland street; "Henderson" bicycle donated by General Motorcycle Sales Company, No. 793 Boylston street; "Black Beauty" bicycle, electrically equipped, contributed by Haverford Cycle Company, No. 874 Washington street and Walker bicycle, given by W. J. Walker, No. 164 Massachusetts avenue. These are all high grade machines and their total value is $375. Every rider will have an equal opportunity to win one of them, good riding will be the basis of the awards.

Advice Is Needed More Than Rod, Say Many

"Many men, many minds." The truth of the old adage is again illustrated in the letters reaching the Boston American in the controversy over the wisdom of whipping children. Fathers, mothers, daughters and childless adults have written, and they are anything but unanimous. Today's batch of letters is typical. In writing your opinion address your letter to "Training Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass."

WORD OF ADVICE.

Training Editor, Boston American:

A word of advice to "Seventeen" Cousin. The idea of her leaving home because a spank administered by her mother is positively ridiculous. Fear of a whipping won't give her right kind of training from her own people. A STENO.

Cambridge.

LOOK IN MIRROR.

Training Editor, Boston American:

If the average parent would look in the mirror before whipping a child for an error and see the anger in his face he or she might not feel so smug about it. Too many whippings are given without explanation as to what the offence is needed.

A. G. SEGAL.

Chambers street, Boston.

WOULD WHIP WHIPPERS.

Training Editor, Boston American:

Imagine any man in the United States in 1921 advocating the whipping of girls. He certainly must have a profound respect for women. There is only one thing left to be done. Let the trustees like the man who wrote in to you about whipping girls. Establish a public whipping post and give them some of their own medicine. The teachers in the high school in my town say the discipline is excellent, yet the superintendent does not resort to physical punishment.

CIVILIZED.

Northampton.

OVER-INDULGENCE BAD.

Training Editor, Boston American:

The whole argument comes back to the fact that children are individuals. Some have to be whipped. Some don't. I have three and know. Whipping too severely is bad. So is over-indulgence.

MRS. GLADYS BERNARD.

East Lynn.

MOTHER SPARES ROD.

Training Editor, Boston American:

I answer without hesitation that I would not whip children I don't know my own. Too often the rod is the lazy parent's substitute for proper care and religious instruction.

Methuen. METHUEN MOTHER.

FAVORS EASY SLAP.

Training Editor, Boston American:

I would like to give you my opinion on whipping children. When a child is old enough to understand, all it needs is a slight slap. He will soon be corrected with an easy slap. I do not believe in letting a child have his own way, but if the youngster has been made to do what should there will be no need of severe whipping later.

Cambridge. MRS. W. W. MORTON.

GIRL OF EIGHTEEN HAPPY.

Training Editor, Boston American:

I have been reading your articles on whipping children. They interest me greatly. I am a girl eighteen years old and my mother and I are pals. She has never whipped me. She tries to make me happy and allows me to have all my romance come to the house. If she had whipped me I am sure there would not have been the same feeling between us.

G. F.

Wellesley Farms.

A DOUBLE ABSURDITY.

Training Editor, Boston American:

A "College Bred Mother" writes in that she thinks it absurd for parents to object to physical punishment for children. Certainly she does. But she had two sons to go across the water, where there is no law against wife-beating, her husband might have thought it absurd for anybody to object to his beating.

K. D.

Boston.

April 28, 1921.

EXEMPTION FOOLISH.

Training Editor, Boston American:

There is no doubt that in the past the whip was used too freely, particularly on girls. But there is no doubt, either, that the pendulum has now swung too far in the other direction. Girls over twelve are apparently exempt from whipping. Which is foolish.

T. S.

Boston.

"SPRING FEVER"

It not a disease but simply a sign that many body cells have become tired or lazy after the stress of Winter conditions. Such cells need to be nourished and fed, not whipped into temporary activity by so-called "tonics." Father John's Medicine helps nature repair and rebuild tissue. It contains no drugs nor alcohol. Hence, it is a builder, not a bracer. It is a food-medicine, not a mere tonic. In use for over sixty-five years.

49,000 Marine Workers Idle Before Great Strike Order Was Issued

[illegible] and officered entirely by foreigners.

The Boston American, due to be expected, is the only vessel that was the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., which has accepted the wage scale and working conditions demanded by the men.

The vessels to arrive here today were the Dollar liner, Father Dollar, from the Pacific coast; two Merchants' and Miners' Steamship chartered ships from the Gulf of Mexico ports, and the tidewater from Chesapeake Bay ports; the Old North Land and Northern of the Metropolitan line, from New York.

The North land left New York at 5 o'clock last night several hours after the strike was called. The others had sailed after announcement was made of the walkout.

49,000 WERE IDLE.

Previous to the calling of the strike it was stated that 49,000 seamen, engineers and deck officers on the American seaboard were idle because of the tying up of the 15 passenger vessels due to the shipping slump.

The strike, it is expected, will involve more than 125,000 additional workers, it is declared, and if it continues the walkout will cost at least $1,000,000 a day, about 2,000 more ships being affected.

The strike order was put into effect after a conference of leaders on the 7 cent wage reduction urged by Admiral Benson of the Shipping Board was rejected by the unions of firemen, cooks and stewards and the International Seamen's Union.

Hope was expressed that President Harding would appoint arbitrators and bring about a settlement, but the president is apparently behind Admiral Benson.

SAY THEY "RESIGNED."

Six thousand marine engineers who quit work in New York said that they had not gone on strike but had "resigned." Nine vessels flying United States flag were able to leave New York Sunday, but no more are at anchor in the harbor and will be tied up unless the trouble is ended soon.

The shipping owners charge that the men are attempting to break up the American merchant marine. The strike leaders deny the accusation and make the counter charge that the American Steamship Association planned to wreck the American merchant marine by driving Americans off the ship substituting cheap European labor.

TO WIN, SAYS HEALY.

"We are fighting for preservation of the American merchant marine," declared Thomas D. Healy, business agent of the marine engineers. "We are certain of victory. Right now there is no more chance for an American ship to sail from Boston, Philadelphia or New York."

Charles Mosher, organizer for the Seamen's Union, said that unless world trade returns to normal many foreigners who promise to become American citizens will be employed upon American vessels.

Thomas Gilligan, assistant general secretary of the International Seamen's Union, predicted that the Shipping Board would be out of New York before June 1.

Representatives of the shipowners' Association were quoted as conceding that about 50 per cent of all American steamship crews of the country were out.

Four Men Arrested for Picketing in Baltimore

By International News Service.

Baltimore, May 2.—Four men, said to be picket for long marine workers' union, were arrested shortly before midnight and will be given a hearing today on criminal charges of disorderly conduct.

The men were arrested in the Locust Point yards of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad by special policemen of the railroad company.

It was reported today that two more seamen's unions would join the longshoremen in their fight, bringing the outcome of the controversy over wages and working conditions a step nearer settlement.

U. S. Course in Ship Strike Not Determined

By International News Service.

Washington, May 2.—The government is not yet fully determined what course it will take in the shipping strike, it was declared today. "There is no new development."

He refused to say whether a new shipping policy would be outlined soon to appointed meeting of the Shipping Board, of which Hoover is chairman.

It was indicated, however, that President had authorized the announcement that the government would not intervene in the strike unless it became necessary to safeguard the mails.

Officials declared that the labor unions had not requested intervention.

The [illegible] Thursday evening, Chair," "Under Cover" and "Within the Law" deals with a murder theme in such a way as to keep the audience guessing to the last moment.

Mrs. Chalkley has taken for her chief incident one of the most remarkable themes in science, a photograph on the human skin, placed by a flash of lightning. Two fingers thus imprinted on a woman's back hold the clew of a fratricide and three acts are devoted to unravel [illegible].

ORGAN MOVERS DISTURB 'HILL'

Night Work Necessary to Get Instrument to Colonial for "Deception"

The tranquility of Chestnut street and Beacon Hill has been rudely disturbed nightly by continual hammering and banging which lasted all night in the vacant house at No. 6 Chestnut street. Investigation revealed an interesting situation.

A beautiful Hutchins pipe organ, owned by Edward Farnham Green, using the auditorium of the big studio at the rear of his home, has been leased by Hugo Riesenfeld, and the hammering and setting up of organ are being pressed in getting it into the Colonial Theatre in time for opening of "Deception," on Tuesday evening.

UNUSUAL INSTRUMENT.

Mr. Green and his family are at present in Europe. He left instructions that the great organ in his house be sold. Mr. Riesenfeld's plans call for a performance at the Colonial and a big orchestra of forty pieces necessitated an unusually fine organ.

Mr. Riesenfeld and his agents hunted in London high and low for a suitable instrument. Several ordinary motion picture house organs were rejected. Though the negotiations for the purchase lasted several months, it was found impossible to rent an organ for that period. Organs are usually sold to order and their installation is a matter of four or five months.

MOVING BIG JOB.

On Tuesday last Mr. Riesenfeld bought outright the big Hutchins organ from Mr. Green's agents. The instrument is said to be made [illegible] thousands.

Then it became a case of moving the organ. One organ company after another refused the job on the ground that no organ could possibly be moved and set up again in less than three weeks.

Manager of a theatrical company in the Colonial all last week completed matters. The organ was moved [illegible] by working twenty-four hours a day. Mr. Riesenfeld has declared that he could do the job with double gangs of men.

Why That Bad Back?

"Every Picture Tells a Story"

IS a lame, aching back keeping you miserable? Do you long for a moment's rest from those sharp, stabbing pains that torture you from morning 'till night? Are you "all played out" and without strength or vigor for the day's work? Then you should find out what is causing the trouble and lose no time correcting it. Most likely, it's your kidneys! You have probably been working too hard and neglecting proper rest and exercise. Your kidneys have slowed up and poisons that well kidneys should have filtered off, have accumulated in your system. That then, is the cause of that nerve-racking backache, those piercing pains and annoying headaches, dizzy spells and bladder irregularities. Help the kidneys before the trouble gets worse.

Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

These are Boston Cases:

Bartlett Street

C. A. Hoffmann, foreman of picture frame company, 114 Bartlett St., gave the following statement on July 14, 1914: "Being on my feet continually caused weakness in my back that was very annoying. I thought my kidneys needed attention, and as Doan's Kidney Pills were strongly recommended, I began their use. I didn't have to take the medicine long before I was quickly relieved of all trouble. This experience leads me to have strong faith in this remedy, and I highly recommend it."

East Third St. (South Boston)

Mrs. Thomas Kowalik, 404 E. 3rd St., S. Boston, says: "My back ached so I could hardly keep on my feet. I would have awful dizzy spells and headaches so that it seemed I would faint at times. My kidneys caused a great deal of annoyance, too. The first box of Doan's Kidney Pills relieved my condition wonderfully and three boxes made my kidneys strong again. I have not had kidney trouble since, but should it ever trouble me again I would certainly use Doan's."

Shawmut Avenue

James Kelly, stone mason, 298 Shawmut Ave., says: "I think the hard work as a stone mason at what weakened my kidneys and caused attacks of kidney complaint. At times I could hardly get up or down because of the severe pains in the small of my back. I had to get up at night to void the kidney secretions, and the secretions were scanty and highly colored. I was subject to headaches and spells of dizziness, too. I always used Doan's Kidney Pills right away, and they removed the symptoms and I felt fine."

Do This For Constipation

THE public should know that there is a vast difference in the action of the various remedies for constipation. Some are "flushes," purges, physics. They gripe and weaken.

For lasting effect use a laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin acts gently and easily so that even a little baby can use it with safety. It is a compound of Egyptian senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant tasting aromatics. A fifty-cent bottle will last an average family many months.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the most popular of all laxatives and more is used in American homes than any other. Last year eight million bottles were sold by druggists, the largest sale in the world.

WILD FAMILY INVADES TOWN

Man With Nameless Wife and "4 Brats" Emerges From Mountains; Seizes Shack

Nearby N. Y., May 2.—When one day early this month two families, one husband, his real wife and his four small children, each would of course have a cow peacefully grazing there to-day.

What does one do with a family of six, augmented by two more, all requiring food and shelter, and with no means to support them? From the doorstep inferno of the Hermann immigration to Nazi Germany, the problem has been put up to me and I could offer only a partial solution. Here is the story of a man who had a wife and four children, married and divorced them in a Nazi atmosphere, married a second wife and had two children by her, and then, apparently, family and home in a shriveled community before the war, and with the help of a Nazi consul, escaped to America with his second family and his first family.

Stocks Strong in New York at Noon; Call Money Opened at 7%; Exchange Rates Up

New York Stocks

RAILS ADVANCE, OILS RALLY

Copper Shares Become Strong in the Last Half of an Active Morning

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, rallying in the second hour until the leaders were 1 to 3 points, also showed distinct improvement. Anaconda, Chino and Inspiration sold at 14 to 14¼, while Utah Copper and other issues to attain highs for 1921 were Baldwin, Midvale, Studebaker, Motors, Hupp, International Nickel, Montgomery, Ward & Co., Endicott Johnson, Sinclair Oil and Hide & Leather common. Virginia Carolina Chemical sold at a low for the year. Oils rallied and Mexican Petroleum established most of its loss. It was down more than four points at its low point.

Several stocks advanced a point or so, including Texas & Pacific, Central Leather gaining nearly three. Reading led rails with more than two points gain. Middle-class recovered about half of two points lost. Motors and others reached higher levels. Call money opened at 7 per cent. Foreign exchange rates advanced.

EASED OFF AFTER START.

The market began with an advance and held steady for a few minutes before wavering. Then a downward trend developed and prices eased off until the list was irregular and the tone heavy. Studebaker, Mexican Petroleum and Fisk Rubber led in the decline. Profit taking in the former was resumed while Doheny oils continued under bear pressure. At the end of an hour the market had rallied a little and was irregular at the best. Although there was a decline of several points in the case of a few stocks, quotations averaged narrow. Motors were strong as a group and the most active group. There was a downward tendency and sales were uncertain in movement. Very little was done in copper, rails or sugars, but they all held a steady tone up to mid-morning. Tires had a start but failed to hold it. General Asphalt was the only good active specialty and it sought a higher level.

LOWER MONEY RATES.

After the Bank of England reduced its discount rate it was said that the foreshadowed further action by Federal Reserve authorities. While the call rate went up to 7 per cent. in the New York Stock Exchange, it was understood that the advance was due to local and temporary exigencies. The latest clearing house statement was unfavorable, showing a decline of nearly $5,000,000 instead of a surplus reserve. But the Federal Reserve ratio had advanced 1.6 to per cent., a rise of 12 per cent. above the lowest figure for last year. Credit conditions have appeared considerable improvement within a month and this is largely because of continuation of industrial liquidation. Betterment of the credit position had to be attained before business expansion could be looked for. Good harvests, it is now predicted, will mean a long stride toward trade revival before this year is over. The situation, in brief, is generally more favorable.

COPPERS FIRM IN BOSTON

Local Market Had Good Start, but Became Irregular; Brisk Curb Trading

While strength characterized the Boston list when the local market opened, it was not long retained by the list as a whole and the market became irregular. Trading was of fair volume and of ordinary breadth. The price movement here followed the downward trend shown by New York. Metallic Investment was the leader, opening a fraction off and showing a loss of nearly two points before the first hour was over. Rumors regarding the longevity of Mexican fields have undermined confidence in oils for the time being. Oils soon receded a point on a small list of issues. Ahmeek advanced a point. Other changes during the first hour were fractional. Coppers were generally dull and heavy in tone.

Failure to make small gains were American Telephone, Copper Range, Davis-Daly, United Shoe Machinery common, Snowdon, Utah Consolidated, Swift International, Lexiter and Reed. Stocks to receive a little included Hood Rubber preferred, Utah Metals, Arizona Commercial, Boston & Montana, Boston & Montana, Mutual, Seven Metals, Texas and Simms Petroleum. Among stocks to show losses on initial sales were Hupp, Hecla Divide and United Verde Extension.

At the end of an hour Boston & Montana was up 2 cents at 66 cents, Hecla Divide 2 cents at 28 cents, Kendall 1 cent at 15 cents, Ahmeek 1 cent at 72 cents, Mutual 3-16 at 12 cents, Mexican Petroleum 1¾ at 76½, Simms Petroleum 1¼ at 12 cents, Alpha 1 cent at 3 cents, Arizona Silver 2 cents at 25 cents, Arizona Tip Top half a cent at 7½ cents, Daddy Lynn at 1 cent and Verde Mines 1 cent at 25 cents.

Boston Financial Notes

It is reported from the Lake region that Ahmeek has increased by large quantities last week, the situation there is the best it has been in months. Ahmeek is one of the few copper companies in the district which has not reduced its wages. Its output last week was 4,348 tons.

It produced 28,277 pounds and sold 28,000 pounds at a price of 12.05 cents a pound.

Shareholders of Mutual attended International Power Co. annual meeting at 125 Milk street, but no proxies were asked or requested to attend and this business was transacted by the directors.

Stock is $3 per cent. of the entire issue, and was represented by large proxies. It was duly authorized.

The stockholders of the Big Lake Copper Co. will call a meeting to vote on the proposition to increase the capital stock from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000. The proposition involved stock par $5.

Second Slim Week Follows Halt in Strike Parleys and Open Shop

New York Enjoying a Building Boom

New York, May 2—This city is enjoying a real building boom, the best of any consequence in four years.

There is more than four times as much building in progress now as at this time a year ago, Mayor Hylan announced yesterday, going on. Last week plans were filed for the building of apartment houses to take care of 630 families.

Enough dwellings of all types to house about 2,000 families have been started since February 1 as the building boom began. Borough President Henry H. George of Manhattan said that one cause of the boom was the tax exemption on property for new houses.

BABE RUTH FINALLY GETS INTO ACTION AGAINST THE RED SOX

SAM JONES TO FACE MAYS

Large Crowd Expected to Turn Out to Greet King of Swat

By NICK FLATLEY

The big clouting was to start today at Fenway Park—Babe Ruth and the Yankees held up for a couple of days of murky weather went after the Babe on the first day. Babe et al think the league has the softest kind of pickings, judging by opinion on a couple of easy victories enjoyed at the Polo Grounds.

Manager Huff's Red Sox regard differently, however, today and tomorrow, with plenty of warning to the wise.

Sam Jones and Carl Mays should be very, very ready to do the pitching. They have been all rested up since last Friday.

One of the greatest attractions in modern baseball history was prepared for the Fenway Park fans today when Babe Ruth was put up against Sam Jones, the Yankee ace, and Carl Mays, who will send to the firing line the Batting Barrage that has injured fast water mark in this way. Huff and Barrow represent the only cloud that was to be seen over the week-end.

After getting through with the Yanks, the Red Sox go on the road and it will be July 4 before they set foot on a home field again. Should they get off to a terrible start before the league has been swept off the map.

The journey of the Red Sox is the most trying one that has come off in years, and the Braves will be the Managers. While this may not be an obstacle to the fairly well-rounded of veterans.

Our Braves stagger back Wednesday to begin long home stand. They open with the Phils, then receive the distant half of the league. Despite their sad fortune on the trails, they still have a chance to get the crowds coming here.

Bobby Roth, once a Red Sox property, will not be with the Yanks shortly get back into the game. He has been vacationing for quite a while because of a bad knee, but is ready in training. Babe Ruth's escorts are almost handing Class as any of the Hoosier chasers, and has the ability to that's a real compliment. Both Bodie and Meusel are getting ready to entertain a hectic battle for their jobs.

Two or three days after Crilly's article appeared, said Ted, Captain Tom Quinlan, holding at the present position with a well known yeast concern, wrote me a four-page letter in which he quoted Dr. Crilly and suggested that a yeast diet for the Yale football squad might prove the very thing to place Yale again on the football pedestal, and a few days later I was besieged by the local representative of the same concern, who declared the vitamines in Kilty in Eastern food products would be supplied for my squad in the form of inchpurgee cakes.

"I told them that I thought we had passed the yeast proposal, but who knows but what a coat dier might make Yale's standard of football play.

Several prominent track coaches with whom we discussed the recent sprint achievement of Charley Paddock, who with an opening that Paddock with his improved start is capable of making the reported records. They also agreed, however, in questioning Paddock's ability to deliver under the reported conditions certain of the marks accorded to him in his most recent effort in which, in two races, he was reported to have broken four records and equalled two.

* * *

In one of such dashes Paddock was clocked at three points, but inasmuch as he ran just two of the points and did not make his flying finish at the third point was reached, these coaches doubted his ability to make record time at the first two points where he did not employ his flying leap at the tape.

They also questioned Bob Weaver's statement that he had five expert timers at each point along the course. That would mean fifteen such timers, and the coaches referred to strongly doubted the ability of not only the coast, but any one section of the country to provide fifteen men who would qualify as expert sprint timers.

If London dispatches are to be believed local sporting writers have packed away certain sporting equipment much too early.

Such dispatches tell us the latest fad among Britain's most is mud-setting, in which the equipment is a bathing suit and a set of Canadian Scandinavian or Alpine skis. A former English army officer, Major Pershing-Williams—though good skis could be employed equally well—will insist on on snow when his rowboat crowd in a mire and be attached two staves to his feet and called to solid ground and airway. Such diversions will introduce the sport has a host of participants.

According to several Penney tipsdenes Wright was wrong in classifying about the Red and Blue variety crew shortly before its losing race with Yale at Poughkeepsie. Prior to this A. Jellenack was holding the bow position. Coach Wright shifted him to No. 6, and as Penn probably, resetting, wanted to know how any one could possibly be better suited to do the bowing than A. Jellenack.

VARSITY AND YEARLINGS IN BRUSH ON CHARLES

Harvard varsity and freshman crews raced on the Charles today, the result presumed to be one of the most interesting of the season. While Coach Haines has selected his varsity eight there is still a chance that changes may be made in the freshmen crew for the triangular regatta with Princeton and the Navy on Lake Carnegie next Saturday.

WELLING IS ON WITH CLINTON

Doubtful Whether Britt Will Go Through With Contest With Lititz

OLYMPIC A. A. PROGRAM

Ten rounds—Bobby Dunn vs. Earl Turpeau.

Ten rounds—Paul Demers vs. Carl Tremaine.

Ten rounds—Danny Kramer vs. K. O. Joe O'Donnell.

Ten rounds—Joe Lititz vs. Frankie Britt.

Ten rounds—Joe Welling vs. Johnny Clinton.

Boston's open air boxing season of which so much is expected as a result of the keen competition promised, will be started tonight when the club officials of the Olympic A. A., primarily an outdoor conducting organization, will be seen at Braves Field.

Matchmaker Jimmy Mooney has arranged a strong program to the extent that he has better than usual interest in money matches, and the ten round contests promised to be exciting from start to finish.

Wants Britt to Be Examined Here

There is some doubt about Frankie (Young) Britt appearing against Joe Lititz, as the Lowell boy's manager, Jack Reed, has been informed by Matchmaker Mooney that Britt must have an examination by Dr. Peter J. Moore, of New Bedford, before he will be allowed to perform. Matchmaker Mooney says that if Britt is found to be in perfect condition he will be allowed to box at Braves Field Monday night. Permit the Massachusetts State Boxing Commission only allows boxers to box twice in any one week, and as Britt has already appeared in Lowell this week, that will be the limit. In case Britt cannot box, the club will provide a worthy opponent for Lititz.

The bouts and the order in which they will be seen follow: Bobby Dunn vs. Earl Turpeau; Paul Demers vs. Carl Tremaine; Danny Kramer vs. K. O. Joe O'Donnell; Joe Lititz vs. Frankie Britt; and Johnny Clinton vs. Joe Welling.

Realizing the length of the card Mooney has promised to have the Jyson-Purpeau contest going at full tilt promptly at 7:30. There will be no arc lamps between bouts. As soon as one pair has finished performing another will be ready to step into the ring.

Several Innovations Planned by Mooney

Should the weather prevent the show from being held, Mooney will make an attempt to have the card sent to all terminals and promoted places where fans are sure to learn of a postponement, and then it will be held on the first available night as regards weather.

Mooney, always a stickler for details in conducting boxing, has several innovations to spring to celebrate his return to this city as a matchmaker. In Purpeau, Tremaine and O'Donnell he will be introducing new men of whom much has been heard. All others booked are well known in Boston.

There is likely to be as much interest in the first two bouts on the program as in all the rest of the show, as it is well known that Dyson and Demers are brilliant lads in a ring and the hope is that they have been paired with lads equally capable. Each of the other bouts should make interesting events. Kramer started to be the sensation here that he has proved to be since making Philadelphia his home. He alone will move a great attraction tonight.

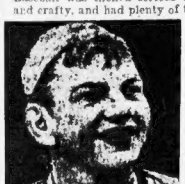
Nick, the Baseball Clown

Years ago, Nick Altrock was a great left handed pitcher. Baseball was then a serious business to him. He was cool, and crafty, and had plenty of the "stuff" that makes pitching efficiency.



As far back as 1906 he was a star of a world's series, fighting with Comiskey's White Sox against the Chicago Cubs.

He was noted, aside from his baseball pitching, as being the homeliest man in the game.

Like other ball players, Altrock lost his big league efficiency. He played for a time in the minors, refuge of the worn out big leaguers. Presently he could not keep up even in that company.

It seemed to be baseball oblivion for old Nick when Clark Griffith, a serious man, decided that a little humor would not harm the game. He engaged Nick, ostensibly as a coach, but really to provide amusement for the crowds and the players.

In the past few years Altrock's antics on the coaching lines, and his queer line of patter, have made millions laugh. He fills, in his way, the functions of a Charley Chaplin, and who would say that Chaplin has not been of benefit to us all?

Men and women are but grown-up children. The child loves the clown. So Altrock has become the favorite of all who go to the ball games to see the Washington Club play.

Baseball is but an entertainment. Altrock adds to that entertainment. His humor is always clean, never offensive. We could stand a lot more of this kind of humor in other entertainment than baseball.

TAD'S TIDBITS

AND LOTS OF 'EM.

Bob Skelton, the national champion 440-yard breast stroke swimmer, is on a visit to San Francisco. One of the papers prints this headline: "SKELTON SURPRISED AT SIZE OF TANKS IN SAN FRANCISCO."

Huh, he oughta see the tanks we have here in Boston. Thousands of 'em, and all dry as bay rum.

Donlin Likes Johnny Mitchell.

Sitting in the press stand at the Polo Grounds last week, Miles Donlin, once murderous mauler, now eminent Thespian, whispered to John Tonjes:

"There's a first division team sitting there on the Yankee bench when the regulars are on the field. They've got a million dollars' worth of talent, I think. Baker's bat is a fortune, and Johnny Mitchell, the short stop they got from the Coast, is a house afire.

"Mitchell can't bust into the game yet, but wait until he does. He'll be the sensation of the league."

Singing of Baseball Trades.

As the Senators were pasting the Yanks the other day and the castoffs sired by Duffy Lewis and George Mogridge were making the New Yorkers look like mugs, one of the telegraphers, to the tune of John Brown's body, sang: "The traded Duffy Lewis for some water on the knee."

Seats for the Big Fight.

After lamping the mail from out-of-town newspapers requesting press seats for the big quarrel, Tex Rickard is seriously thinking of building two arenas—one for the newspaper correspondents and another for the cash customers.

Reformers seem to find it easier to acquire a reputation than to earn an honest living.

The Greatest Six-Day Rider.

"Adding them all up and figuring point for point," says Joe Fogler, "I guess the greatest six-day rider that ever lived was Jimmy Moran of Chelsea. Say, that fellow could have ridden for three days alone if they'd let him. I was his partner once and after he had ridden ten hours I came out to relieve him. He took one peek at me waiting there on the track side and yelled: 'Whatcha looking so sore about? Who asked you to come out, anyway? Go back to bed. I want to grab a lap ALL ALONE.'

Joe says the saddest day of Moran's life was during a six-day grind in Berlin. Moran had been ill the first four days of the race, but on the fifth came around O. K. and ordered a tenderloin steak for himself that was three inches thick.

"You know he always left his teeth with the trainer while he was riding," piped Joe, "and this day at 6 o'clock, when he was dated up with the steak, he got off the wheel, smelled the steak and let out a roar like a lion for his tusks and his trainer.

"It happened, however, that the old trainer had a date with a swell twist and didn't show up until midnight. Moran had to give the steak to another guy and plan the old mush and milk himself."

FOOTBALL CAMP FOR COLUMBIA

Light Blue Eleven's September Training to Be Done Outside New York

New York, May 2—The Columbia eleven will do its preliminary training next September at a football camp to be established near New York, to coach Buck O'Neil.

Various reasons have enjoined the practice of training in the past, but all of the grads in town were brought together to-day at Morningside Heights in full. It was said that the decision to establish a training camp to be part of a thorough campaign to be inaugurated by Coach O'Neil, the first evidence of which was seen in the appointment last year of Jim Brooks, head coach at Williams, as assistant coach and head tutor at the training table during the season. The objective of the Blue and White is to put a definite football system into vogue at the college.

The site most favored for the camp at present is Camp Vail, at Little Silver, about 30 miles from New York. Camp Vail is an aviation field with a large body of concrete quarters there now.

MAMAUX OF BROOKLYN IS APPENDICITIS VICTIM

New York, May 2—The champion Dodgers received quite a blow yesterday when Al Mamaux, one of the stars of their pitching staff, was taken with an attack of appendicitis. Mamaux is confined to his home but his physician should whether an operation will be necessary.

KELLY NEEDS CONFIDENCE

Then You Will Have More Home Runs Open Air Boxing and Nervous Energy

By Jack Conway

George L. Kelly, first baseman for the New York Giants, is a real rival of Babe Ruth, sensational home run hitter of the Yankees, according to the young men who write interesting baseball stories for the newspapers. Kelly has six circuit smashers to his credit as these lines are written, while Ruth has made five home runs. The Giants' first baseman made eleven home runs in 1920 against fifty-four for Ruth.

Kelly is a physical giant, being more than six feet tall and weighing close to 200 pounds. The only thing that prevented him from being a great star last year was lack of confidence in himself. Like many men in business, Kelly was able to perform brilliantly when not pressed hard by an opponent. When the competition became keen he did not show to such good advantage. Maybe the biggest first baseman in baseball has accumulated some of the fighting spirit that has enabled Stuffy McInnis, Everett Scott and other men not blessed with physical greatness, to batter their way to stardom.

Kelly can become one of the most brilliant ball players in the big leagues if he can convince himself that he possesses real ability. Manager John McGraw of the Giants knows this, as do the newspaper reporters who have followed the playing of the New York nine. McGraw told this writer in the South in the Spring of 1920 that Kelly was the only first baseman he had taken in the Spring trip. He asserted that he did this so as to give Kelly confidence in himself. If Kelly awakens to a realization of the fact he possesses a world of natural ability and can hold his own against any competitor, I shall have one of the greatest batters and most brilliant first basemen in the big league," said McGraw. Kelly's batting and work at first base this year would lead one to believe he has seen the light of greatness and likes it.

* * *

Kelly will fall by the wayside before June if he begins doubting his ability to knock out home runs. Ruth will get more than fifty home runs this year, as HE KNOWS he has not an equal when it comes to hitting a baseball. Every American League pitcher holds a similar opinion.

The Olympic A. A. Johnny Mooney matchmaker, announces that it will stage an open air boxing show at Braves Field tonight. Open-air boxing should be popular. The fans will be benefited by clear, wholesome air as they watch well trained, perfectly disciplined youths mix battle for ring fame. Next to taking active part in some health giving exercise, the best thing a person can do is to patronize sports which cause one to spend a number of hours in the open air.

* * *

When you attend an athletic contest, do not be afraid to give voice to your enthusiasm. Dr. Thomas J. O'Brien of No. 501 Beacon street, one of the leading nerve specialists in the East, once told this writer that the best way for a business man to avert nervous breakdown is by securing full relaxation at athletic contests. Dr. O'Brien said he never heard of a real baseball or boxing fan becoming a nervous wreck. It is the silent men who collapse and are removed to sanitariums.

* * *

Experience is one of the greatest assets in promoting sporting events as is true in almost everything else. The Armory A. A., which has been staging successful boxing bouts in Boston for seventeen years, is the only club that has been able to make money on shows in the Boston Arena. It made a substantial profit on the Jeffries-Moran-Wood bout, and more than broke even on the Shevlin-Perry match.

Boxing clubs have been obliged to give 15 per cent. of the gross receipts of their shows to the owners of the Boston Arena. This is what has made it so difficult for the less experienced promotors to stage shows which would be financial winners. The Armory A. A. does not care to utilize its vast knowledge of sporting affairs for the enrichment of the Boston Arena stockholders, and so will hold its future tournaments at Mechanics Building.

The latest protteering landlords, unfortunately, only apply to owners of dwelling houses.

PASTOR PREACHES ON PADDOCK'S RECORDS

The Rev. Dr. Herbert S. Johnson of the Brookline Baptist Church, in his sermon predicted that no foreign runner would break the four sprinting records of Charles W. Paddock for many years to come—if ever. He pointed out that the setting of the four records in one afternoon was a distinct American trait, showing alertness of mind and will power to control the muscles.

BROOKLYN RUSH BIG FEATURE

National League Champions Have Won Ten Straight and Are Now Pressing Pirates

By THOMAS L. CUMMISKEY.

The continued winning streak of the Brooklyn National League champions, who now have won ten straight games, rising from the rung of the second division to supremacy in Pittsburgh, the league leader, the Boston Braves, the Washington and Cleveland in the American League, and the falling back of the New York Yankees and the Giants, form the features of the major league pennant races last week.

To this should be added the sensational hitting of Long George Kelly, the Giants' slugging first baseman, who connected with home runs, the best in either league.

Among the pitchers in the spotlight for effectiveness are Bagby of Cleveland, Mamaux of Brooklyn, Schacht of Washington, Odwell of Cleveland, Sutherland of Detroit, Douglas of Philadelphia, Vance of Brooklyn and York of the Chicago clubs.

Centenary Games in Stadium Give Promise of Being Greatest School Event Ever

By FRED C. LANE

With Charlie Paddock, Jole Rar, Harold Cuthill and possibly Dennis O'Connell, star miler for Harvard, competing, in addition to some 1,500 athletes of Massachusetts high schools, the English High Centenary, which will be held at the Stadium on June 10, gives promise of being the biggest event ever conducted in interscholastic circles in this country.

The annual baseball game between the Boston English and Boston Latin schools is a magnet for former graduates, will also be held as will the senior championship boxing events, boxing and wrestling bouts and a battle of music between school bands.

For greater Boston high schools there will be 100 and 220 dashes and hurdles. The 880 is open to all Massachusetts high schools.

The open events in which many fast and present interscholastic stars have signified their intentions of competing are the 100, 220, 440 and mile. In the latter Jole Ray predicts that if suitable competition is offered he will smash the record.

Committee Assures Ray of Plenty of Rivalry

The committee composed of William F. A. Fitzgerald, chairman; Allan B. Fredericks, Thomas H. Burke, William M. Prout, H. H. Wellington and Mayor Nichols have assured Ray that Curtis and Cuthill will oppose him. Three of the committee are former sprint and long distant champs, each being well versed in assisting at an undertaking of this kind. Arthur Duffy, who has charge of the entries, did the 100 yards in 9 3-5 seconds; Tom Burke, former U. H. S. and B. A. A. star, won the 1904 Harvard-Yale-Princeton mile at the Olympic games, held at Athens in 1896, while Bill Prout was a former E. H. S. and Brown University athlete, was a member of the Olympic team of 1908.

Tuohey to Assemble Wrestling Stars

George Tuohey, who has charge of the wrestling bouts promised the committee that the best men obtainable will appear. Duffey will handle the amateur boxing events, gold medals will be given to winners of all events, while all others placing will be given the usual Boston certificate.

Arrangements have been made to have the school boys of Massachusetts as well as the wounded veterans who will be given the use of their grandstand seat, Mayors, Governors and other dignitaries of the state will be invited guests. The rest of the Stadium will be thrown open to the public.

SIX MAT CHAMPIONS WILL DEFEND TITLES

New York, May 2—Six out of eight champions will defend their titles at the Metropolitan Association A. A. U. wrestling championships, to be held at the Greek-American Athletic club on Thursday and Saturday evenings, May 5 and 7.

They are Carl Benson, Swedish-American C. A., 158 pounds; H. Yange, National Turn Verein, 115 pounds; Nikanas, Greek-American A. C., 125 pounds; Joseph Levis, Greek-American Athletic club, 135 pounds; C. Leone, New York Athletic club, 154 and 145 pounds.

Handicap Track Meet

Harvard spring handicap track meet was held today in the Stadium. Owing to the number of thirteen as well as several special competitions were programmed.

Getting Opponents for Dempsey Harder Than Unscrambling Eggs

By Walter Hoban

For an elongated period Mr. J. Dempsey hasn't been any busier than a tin rooster in an Indian village. A goldfish on this day off is a busy little thing by comparison with our heavyweight champion. He's as idle as an elevator boy on a subway express. This inactivity has endured for several paces of the calendar and months the pity.

Of course, this imitation of a jobless gent is no more Dempsey's fault than the weather. Never let it be said that this baby ducked any foe that might bring on an attack of elephantitis of the wallet. Mr. Kearns, who is associated with Mr. Dempsey in the knuckle business, would never allow any such quitting of the dinner bag. The whole proposition resembles the color of a guy's eyes in that it's nobody's fault and nothing can be done about it.

Statistics show that it takes two persons to make a quarrel. The same number is necessary to make a gate. A scrap without furnishes is like a boat in a desert—not worth a yahoo. And getting guys to scrap into the same ring with Dempsey has been a harder trick than unscrambling an egg. News that Jack could hit harder than a vicious pile driver with a bad temper had brought about an opponent shortage.

That was after Jack had flattened the gigantic Willard in swift time and had toppled over a guy named Miske quicker than was comfortable. None of our promising hosses erased any of that sort of treatment. Gunboat Smith lasted the route as near as hop tonds in Ireland. Arthur Pelkey, mechanics with a displacement of more than 175 pounds, became sprinters.

Then came Bill Brennan. He kept his hoofs on the carpet for nearly a dozen periods of slaughter, and respect for the Dempsey wallop faded out of sight like a guy who owes you two dollars. Aspiring young thumpers began shaking their fists at the owner of the biggest Queensberry meat ticket in the universe. Now there are more challengers than there are huckleberries in a homemade pie.

Joes Willard has disregarded the pleadings of his insurance agent and asked for another crack on the chin. Which one of Joes' chins will be left isn't nominated in the bond. And a youth called Tom Gibbons has tossed caution to the N. S. E. and W. and ordered a request for a socking. Bob Martin, who went to the war, evidently didn't get enough. He is also barking for rough treatment. And so are about a dozen other professional punchers.

The sudden drop of challengers is easier to explain than a wheelbarrow. If Dempsey had slipped the slumber slam to Brennan in a shorter session there would still be an enemy famine. For several months the fact that he didn't do it has been percolating through the brain buckets of the outsiders. At last they have concluded that the old wallop has slipped into a class with beevo, and that it had less kick than a tumblerful of river juice.

Hence the clamor for a try at the long darby that travels flat in flat with the title that is owned and operated by J. Dempsey.

Employes and Trustees Are to Be Congratulated

We heartily congratulate both the employes and the trustees of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company upon their pacific mood and efforts to avoid a strike.

It is always gratifying to see both sides of a great controversy keep constantly in mind the primary obligation of public service.

Our Right to Intervene in Behalf of Ireland

British Premier Lloyd George persists in comparing the Irish demand for freedom to the Southern demand for secession and the destruction of our union during the Civil War. This comparison is made for the benefit of American public opinion.

We have already called attention to the fact that in making this comparison he deliberately ignores an obviously perfect comparison, that is, our demand for freedom during the revolution. The only difference between our demands for freedom and the Irish demand for freedom is the difference in time and in the origin of the relations between us and Great Britain. And both these differences are differences in favor of Ireland and of India. At the time we demanded our independence the right of self-determination was not generally recognized. The law that might makes right had more prevalence at least in the philosophy of the world if not in its practice, than it has today. Moreover, like the origin of the relations between the Solthern States and the Northern States our relations with Great Britain were voluntary and not by conquest and fraud and corruption—which were the forces that drew Ireland into the British Empire and have held her there ever since.

But there is still another difference which ought to make Lloyd George ashamed either to compare Ireland's struggle with a struggle to perpetuate human slavery, and ashamed even to deny Ireland's claim academically, to say nothing of denying it by murder, rapine and arson.

The British are working themselves up into a great stage of indignation at what is called persistent American interference in England's private affairs. By that she means the sympathy which the majority of American citizens express for the aspirations of Ireland and India to be free. These English Tories ought to remember that England was not quite so sensitive in 1917 when Germany had them on their knees and in the language of their commanding general, their back was to the wall.

INDEED TWICE DURING THE CRITICAL PERIOD OF THE STRUGGLE SHE SOLEMNLY PROMISED AMERICA, INDIA, EGYPT AND IRELAND AND THE REST OF THE WORLD NOT ONLY THAT SHE WOULD RECOGNIZE THE RIGHT OF SELF-DETERMINATION HERSELF, BUT THAT SHE WAS FIGHTING TO ESTABLISH THE PRINCIPLE OF SELF DETERMINATION THROUGHOUT THE WORLD AND TO COMPEL ALL NATIONS TO RECOGNIZE IT. THIS WAS THE INTERPRETATION OF OUR FAMOUS WAR OBJECTIVE, NAMELY "TO MAKE THE WORLD SAFE FOR DEMOCRACY."

If the fact that England acquired only such title to Ireland as unratified violence, fraud and corruption can give; if the fact that England is maintaining that title by acts of bloodshed and a destruction of property that violate the tenets of international law, of Christianity and of humanity; if the fact that Irish blood flows in the veins of more than one-fifth of our citizens and more than one-third of Washington's soldiers and nearly 40 per cent. of Washington's officers; and if the fact that Washington publicly stated that Ireland's cause was as great as America's and that if he had failed he would have died on the scaffold where the Irish martyrs have died, and if the fact that all our public men, including our President, even when in office until recent years when the power of wealth has gained control of our government and forbids our public men to do anything disinterested, have never hesitated a moment to proclaim their sympathy for Ireland, if all these facts do not give us, in the eyes of the British Tories, a right to be interested in the fate of our fellow-creatures who are showing such capacity for suffering in behalf of a principle, then surely the special obligation which the English undertook during the war as a promise to us and a vow to victory and salvation, gives us not only the right to be interested, BUT THE RIGHT TO INTERVENE AS WE INTERVENED IN CUBA TO ABATE A TERRIBLE INTERNATIONAL NUISANCE AND TO ENFORCE THE OBLIGATION OF A CONTRACT EXECUTED IN THE BLOOD OF AMERICAN CITIZENS ON THE SODDEN FIELDS OF FRANCE AND BELGIUM.

Government R. R. Ownership Is Inevitable

The Canadian Government by adding the Grand Trunk to its railroad property becomes the owner of the greatest railroad system on the American continent.

And now comes Lord O'Shaughnessy, chairman of the executive committee of the board of directors of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, the next largest railroad system on the continent, which stretches from ocean to ocean, and suggests that the Canadian Government take possession of the Canadian Pacific Railroad. This will give to the Canadian Government 31,000 miles of railroads.

In the march of events government possession and operation of the railroads is inevitable on this continent. On the continent of Europe and in Siberia and Japan the nations own and operate their own railroads. England alone clings to the old-fashioned, corrupting, spendthrift method of private operation.

In our own country the war found the railroads, under private management, at the very threshold of collapse and they almost succeeded in communicating their paralysis to the arm of the government in the struggle to win the war. The critical situation produced by the failure of the railroads under private management was only saved by their prompt seizure by the government and their public operation during the war.

The president of a great insurance company, who owns over 200,000,000 of railroad securities, views the situation with so much alarm that he has publicly told the president of the New York Central Railroad that there is grave danger that the entire capital stock of the railroads will be wiped out—a danger to which he declares private management has greatly contributed—and we say has entirely contributed.

Thus the day is rapidly approaching when the government will take possession of the railroads for good and those who control them for private graft will cease to be a menace to democracy in America.

AMERICAN CREWS PAY IN LONG RUN

Nellie Bly Thinks U. S. Ship Owners Work Against Own Interests by Employing Foreigners to Man Their Vessels.

By Nellie Bly.

AMERICAN ship owners must certainly desire to make their business permanent, profitable and popular. To do so they must have foresight and weigh every move well. By a misdirected policy or bad judgment they can damage themselves irreparably, and their competitors are waiting, anticipating ill-advised moves and ready to take advantage of them for their own benefit.

The first important thing is to hire loyal Americans for managers of their employment bureaus, men who will obey faithfully the order to hire Americans only to man their boats.

It is impossible to secure satisfactory results from a crew composed of all nationalities and understanding only a few words of the American language.

Simple Matter of Business

The business heads of these big companies must certainly understand the importance of having their entire crews understand and speak English. Not only is it inefficient work from those who have no knowledge of the language in which they are commanded, but it is positively a danger in case of accident to life and cargo. Even the Tower of Babel fell when the workers could not longer understand each other or their bosses, and the American merchant marine will fall most disastrously unless a rule is made and kept that all persons employed on American ships shall have knowledge of and speak the American language.

We have two brilliant examples at present of alien crews, and in each case it has cost the owners of the boats a fortune for their poor judgment. One case is the foreign crew on an American boat who mutinied, the boat being towed into port by a foreign ship. The other is the case of an American boat tied up in a foreign port because of trouble with a foreign crew.

I am told daily terrifying tales of acts committed upon American boats to damage them and injure their reputations. Parts of machinery are removed by aliens, sometimes just to destroy, and other times to steal and sell. I have good proof that there is a determined and united effort on the part of many aliens to make American shipping a failure.

It will be a calamity to America if the owners of the American ship lines allow American shipping to be disqualified through their bad judgment in manning their boats with foreigners. Postmaster-General Will H. Hays is busily interested and is considering possibilities of aiding American shipping.

There is no doubt of the official desire to help, and if American shipping is not a success it can be charged directly to the owners themselves and their ill-advised folly in hiring alien crews.

Reports from American seamen by the hundreds arrive in my mail daily. Here are some of the letters:

"Miss Bly—The S. S. ——, run by the —— Line, Battery place, under the U. S. S. B., have put on Russians, although there are plenty of idle and able Americans who would be glad to man this boat. Oil and water don't mix, and can you imagine an American, say one to thirty, getting on with a Russian crew?

"EIGHT AMERICANS."

"Dear Miss Bly—I want to tell you a typical case. S. S. ——, ——, Chief Engineer —— ——, because 'red ink' second issue, given at the port of New York, September, 1919, is a Limey. When asked why he never became a citizen of the United States, replied, 'My wife has never been in this blasted country.'

Boston, Mass. C. H. W.

"Sailors' Snug Harbor, New Brighton, Staten Island.

"My Dear Miss—I hope you will not deem an old ex-American sailor intrusive in writing to you, particularly as my sole motive for doing so is to acquaint you with the fact that we 'ancient mariners' here at Sailors' Snug Harbor have read in the New York Evening Journal how you are engaged in a very commendable and loyal endeavor to maintain the prestige of the American mercantile marine with 100 per cent. American person nel manning the ships fore and aft. And for this we old mariners here are truly grateful.

Up to Americans

"I have followed the sea for over fifty years and have seen the decline of the American mercantile marine until its ships were well nigh negligable upon the seven seas. Then, like many other American seamen, I was at times compelled to sail under other nations' flags, where an American was not looked upon with much favor, and in the eyes of officers and captains of foreign craft was a necessary evil.

"Now that America has come into her own again on the seven seas, it is up to all loyal Americans to maintain the prestige of Old Glory in world's commerce. And it is refreshing to the minds of us 'ancient mariners' here at Snug Harbor that America's new mercantile marine has such an ardent champion as yourself.

"With fervent hope for your success, I remain,

"Yours sincerely,

"F. W."

"SAILORS' SNUG HARBOR.

"Dear Miss Bly—Do what you can with this letter to help bring the truth out about United States flag-flying ships.

"Ten of us, all Americans, were applying for a job as stewards. The ship is the ——, a —— liner, going to South America. The chief steward was signing up men for the trip. There were Scandavis, English, other nationalities and a few Americans signed us. The United States commissioner, who enters the names on the list, when he saw there were only a few Americans, said to the chief steward: 'For God's sake, why don't you put some Americans to work? There are some Americans.' He pointed to us. The steward was five men short, but he answered: 'I have all the men I want.' All the men that were left without work were Americans. We felt pretty sore.

"Yours,

"A NAVY MAN."

The Hammock's Complaint

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

WHO thinks how desolate and strange,
To me, must seem the Autumn's change,
When, housed in attic or in chest,
A lonely and unwilling guest,
I lie through nights of bleak December
And think in silence—and remember?

I think of hempen fields, where I
Once played with insects floating by,
And joyed alike in sun and rain,
Unconscious of approaching pain.
I dwell upon my later lot,
Where, swung in some secluded spot,
Between two tried and trusted trees,
All Summer long I wooed the breeze,
With song of bee, and call of bird,
And lovers' secrets overheard,
And sight and scent of blooming flowers
To fill the happy, sunlit hours.

When verdant fields grow bare and brown;
When forest leaves come raining down;
When frost has mated with the weather
And all the birds go South together;
When drying boats turn up their keels—
Who wonders how the hammock feels?

HOW FALLING STARS ADD A LITTLE TO EARTH

By Garrett P. Serviss

"What finally happens to—or what is the disposition of, a falling or shooting star?"—E. V. K., Philadelphia.

HAVING been burned to dust and gas in the air, it finally descends upon the earth or mingles with the atmosphere. It is so much (though infinitesimally little) added to the mass of our planet. You see what an immense range of conjecturable, even if improbable, possibilities is involved in this process.

At present the additions to the earth made by the descents of meteors are inconsiderable, possibly an average of a hundred or two hundred tons annually. Even if it were as much as a thousand tons per year, no less than six quintillions of years would be required to double the earth's mass.

Ignorant of Rate

But we do not know how great the rate of meteoric influx may have been ages ago. According to the plausible theories of the origin of the solar system, the process of creation of the earth and its sister planets was a swift falling together of matter from certain nuclear points of larger and smaller masses. This process gradually diminished until it became of practically no importance to planetary growth after the great mass of scattered matter had been drawn into the principal gravitation centres.

If the earth was built up in that way the work was practically finished an age ago and only the attendant and subsequent conditions that no trace of the process be now evident in the crust of the planet.

It may be added although there is no proof of such a thing, that at times more recent than the early formative ages of the earth in history extraordinary influxes of meteoric matter may have occurred, not of such a nature as to leave any recognizable marks in the rock strata of the globe, but sufficient in quantity to alter materially, though temporarily, the composition and physical state of the atmosphere.

We are not forbidden by any thing known to science to suppose that there may be clouds of dusty matter in space, and an encounter with an extensive cloud of that kind might be the cause of a tremendous disaster to the inhabitants of the globe. But for the fact that spectroscopic evidence seems to show that there are very few, if any, elemental substances in the universe that do not already exist (though often in a very different state) upon the earth we might speculate on the possibility of strange meteors introducing a chemical revolution on our planet.

Letters to the Editor

Roosevelt Coin

Editor Boston American:

If a bill reported in Congress is passed, we will have a two-and-a-half-cent piece in honor of that sturdy, loyal and lovable American, Theodore Roosevelt.

This bill should not pass, however. It should be amended to read, "A two-cent coin," which would be more practical and meet with more approval than the "two-and-a-half-cent piece," because, a purchaser of any small commodity would be paying one-half cent too much, especially for newspapers and stamps, and, therefore, the issuance of such a coin should be prevented.

Millions of admirers of Roosevelt want to see a Roosevelt coin, but not one that is going to be a nuisance.

CURIOSITIES AND QUEER ANTICS OF FIGURES

By The Spectator

THE children liked to have old Professor Swanson drop in of evenings. Although he was a learned man and taught mathematics in the university, he always had a bagful of tricks, puzzles and curiosities for the boys and girls.

"Figures are curious fellows," he said one evening as they all sat around the library table. "Even arithmetics and algebras don't tell half their antics.

"Take the figure 9, for instance, which is one of the strangest fellows of the lot.

"Multiply it by 2 and you get 18; add 9 and 1 make 9. Five 9's are 45 and 5 and 4 make 9 again. Three 9s are 27, and 7 and 2 make 9. Four 9s are 36, and 6 and 3 make 9.

Peculiar "9"

"Take any row of figures you fancy—say 8642—and if you reverse them and subtract 8642 2468—you have left 6174, which added together makes 18, or twice 9. Take the figures of the right and it again. If you take five figures say 76417—reverse them—71467—and subtract, you get 41976, which added together makes 27—that is 7 and 2 make 9, or three 9s are 27.

"Seven is another number especially adapted for figure juggling. Multiplied by 2, 37 becomes 111, and no matter what multiple of 37 you take the figures in the result will be all alike. Twelve times 37 is 444, 27 times 21 be 777, and so on.

"Another curiosity he showed them was how strangely the figures 1 and 9 influenced when multiplied by 9. Thus:

```
 12345679 x 9 =  111111
 24691358 x 9 =  222222
 37037037 x 9 =  333333
 49382716 x 9 =  444444
 61728395 x 9 =  555555
 74074074 x 9 =  666666
 86419753 x 9 =  777777
 98765432 x 9 =  888888
111111111 x 9 =  999999
```

"And now," said the professor, "I will show you how you can tell a person's age by magic.

"Just have him write down the date and the month of his birth. Then have him multiply the number so found by 2, then add 5, then multiply by 50, then add his present birthday, and finally add 365.

"You must not see any of his figures. The only tells you the total. From that total all you have to do is subtract 615 and you have his age and the month and day of his birth.

An Illustration

"Thus, suppose the person is born on the 7th of April and is 23 years old. He writes down the day and month—April is the fourth month, which, of course, multiplies it by 2, which makes 8, adding 5 makes 13; multiplying by 50 gives 650, adding his age, 23, he gets 7673; and adding now 365, the total is 8038.

"He hands you this sum, 8038, on a slip of paper. You subtract 615 from it and the remainder is 7423, of which 7 is the day, 4 the month and 23 his age. That is, he was born on the 7th day of April (the fourth month) and is 23 years old.

"And that," said he, taking up his hat, "is enough for one evening."
